The Role of a School Governor

There are approximately 22,200 school governors in Wales. They give their time, skills and expertise in a voluntary capacity, to help their schools provide children with the best possible education.

Governing bodies are accountable for the strategic direction of their school and for the quality of education provided.

You will discover that many kinds of people become governors of schools. Like you, they will have a particular reason for serving on the governing body. Because of these different reasons all governing bodies have a core group of governors, consisting of:

- Parent governors
- Teacher governors
- Staff governors
- Local Authority governors
- The headteacher (acting in the capacity of a governor where this is his/her choice)

Governing bodies will also consist of some of the following governors, depending on the type of school:

- Community governors
- Additional community governors
- Representative governors
- Foundation governors
- Partnership governors
- Sponsor governors
- Associate pupil governors (secondary schools)

Fact Files on the different categories of governor can be found at:

Why become a Governor?

- To make an important contribution to education by supporting the school community, its staff and pupils and helping to raise standards of education
- To experience rewarding and challenging opportunities
- To help to develop your existing skills and also learn new ones
- To meet and work with new people
- To gain awareness of the education system

A Governor is a volunteer who:

- has an interest in education;
- represents those with a key interest in the school;
- is part of a team which accepts responsibility for everything a school does;
- has time to commit to meetings and other occasions;
- is willing to learn;
- is able to act as a critical friend who supports the school but also challenges and asks questions about how the school works and the standards it achieves;
- acts as a link between parents, the local community, the Local Authority and the school.

Core Responsibilities of the Governing Body

- Promoting high standards of educational achievement and behaviour
- Setting targets for pupil achievement
- Ensuring that all learners have access to a broad and balanced curriculum
- Determining the aims, policies and priorities of the school
- Determining and monitoring the school's budget
- Staffing – e.g. staff appointments, performance management
- Providing parents with information regarding the school
- Producing an action plan and monitoring progress following an inspection by Estyn
- The wellbeing and safeguarding of learners

How does a Governor fulfil his/her duties?

Examples include:

- Attending meetings, committees and, perhaps, participate in small working parties from time to time
- Visiting the school
- Being linked to an area of the school's work
- Participating in decisions of the governing body
- Working within an agreed code of conduct e.g. refer to Principles of Conduct for Governors of Schools in Wales at: <http://www.governors.wales/publications/2015/04/16/principles-conduct-governors-schools-wales/>
- Maintaining confidentiality when required
- Undertaking training and development
- Being aware of the latest initiatives and developments in education

Support and Training

For governors to carry out their responsibilities effectively and to a high standard they need to be trained appropriately.

A commitment to governor development is an important aspect of being an effective governing body but training does not just stop at the induction stage. There are a number of additional training courses available, provided by Local Authorities, to assist all governors to gain the knowledge and skills necessary to effectively govern their school.

Governors Wales

Governors Wales is an independent organisation serving the needs of the 22,200 school governors in Wales.

We seek to support effective governance of schools in Wales and support the personal and professional development of individual governors.

We are proud to represent the views of governors on a range of matters affecting schools and in turn help them to govern their schools effectively.
